

The number of miles any product travels before reaching your home doesn't add one whit to its quality—more likely it will add to the price. There should be no particular magic in a label because it bears the name of a distant city or state. Distance may lend enchantment, but it invariably adds to the price.

HALT!

The command to halt has back of it the power of the army. In hundreds of communities in this country today a halt has been called on the community robber, on the man or woman who, thinking or unthinkingly, robs the community by refusing to patronize home interests. What's needed today are more sentries, more men and women to all a halt on such thoughtlessness. Our community is asked to take a definite stand on this question. Let each man appoint himself a sentry to see that the community life is preserved. Other communities have fallen in line. They have hoisted the home trade flag. We must fall in line or fall behind. Forward, march.

STRENGTH IN THE UNION OF DEALER AND CONSUMER

If All Buy in Clarksburg We Keep Both Goods and the Money.

Clarksburg, W. Va.

October 29, 1915.

Why should Clarksburg money be spent with Clarksburg merchants? In other words, what are the practical and economic reasons for discouraging the mail order practice? A convincing answer, we believe, is to be found in the story of the bundle of seven sticks. The father of seven sons bound together a bundle of as many sticks, and calling the sons to him, one at a time, bade them in turn break the bundle. They were all men of maturity, but the task set for them by their sire was beyond their strength. The old gentleman then removed the cords from the bundle and, with a child's strength, severed each of the seven sticks. "The moral is apparent—"in union there is strength."

As applied to mercantile transactions, the word "union" is a synonym for co-operation, and to make effective the homely lesson taught in this story the Clarksburg citizen must spend his money with the Clarksburg merchants. "But," says the pessimist, "the opposition to the mail order business comes largely from the local merchants themselves and not from the consumers, and if all consumers adopted the slogan 'buy in Clarksburg,' the benefits would all accrue to the dealer." Not so.

We had to prove the theorem that the sum of the parts is equal to the whole, and we found that the proposition is easy of demonstration. It is, in fact, a proposition that may be applied with equal accuracy to things animate as well as things inanimate—to men as well as to marbles. The several parts, taken collectively, comprise the entire body, let it be a political body or otherwise. So it is that what promotes the interests of Smith the grocer and Jones the butcher, adds to the prosperity of the whole community and thereby stimulates and fosters community welfare. Furthermore, are we not our brother's keeper, and should we not be willing, if need be, to make some effort in his behalf?

But comes again the knocker and exclaims, "buncombe! Neither Smith nor Jones pays my bills and I'm going to buy where I choose. 'Charity begins at home.' Charity should begin at home and Mr. Knocker, we grant, has the right to market where he will, but we challenge him to deny that he would not patronize mail order firms if he were convinced that he could do as well at home. Here is where the issue is joined, however, for he thinks he effects a saving through the medium of the mail order house.

Many people will actually spend ten cents for street car fare to save a nickel on a pound of butter, and this is the kind of saving the consumer indulges in who sends his money out of the state. When he buys an article in Clarksburg for a dollar bill, we have both the article and the dollar; whereas when he sends that dollar to Chicago, the money goes to swell the wealth of the latter city.

Husband Bags Buck While Wife, Good Shot, Gets Turkey on Wing

CUMBERLAND, Nov. 6.—Captain Fred Smith, of Shenandoah Junction, the well known fast freight conductor on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, with Mr. Smith and their son had a successful hunt recently on the Ziller place near Woodmont, in Morgan county, W. Va., about forty miles east of Cumberland. Mr. Smith bagged a buck that weighed 175 pounds, while Mrs. Smith, who is as good a shot as her husband, brought down a large wild turkey, gobbler as he was flying. They also bagged rabbits and squirrels.

Fred Witt, of Martinsburg, one of the party, wounded a bear, but it rolled down over a cliff and got away. They saw two other bears but did not get a shot at them.

The Greatest Gas Range Made

In Gas Ranges as well as other things there must be a best. All are worthy of being designated "the very best of its kind." We think every stove dealer knows which this best is. They will frequently tell their prospective customers that they have a range equal to the Detroit JEWEL. This isn't the fact and they know it. There is no other stove that will do a given amount of cooking with so small a gas consumption. There is no other that will last so long and none of which so many are in use as this.

When you are buying a new Range, see that you get one that will not overtax your pocket-book when the new and higher rate for gas will be charged.

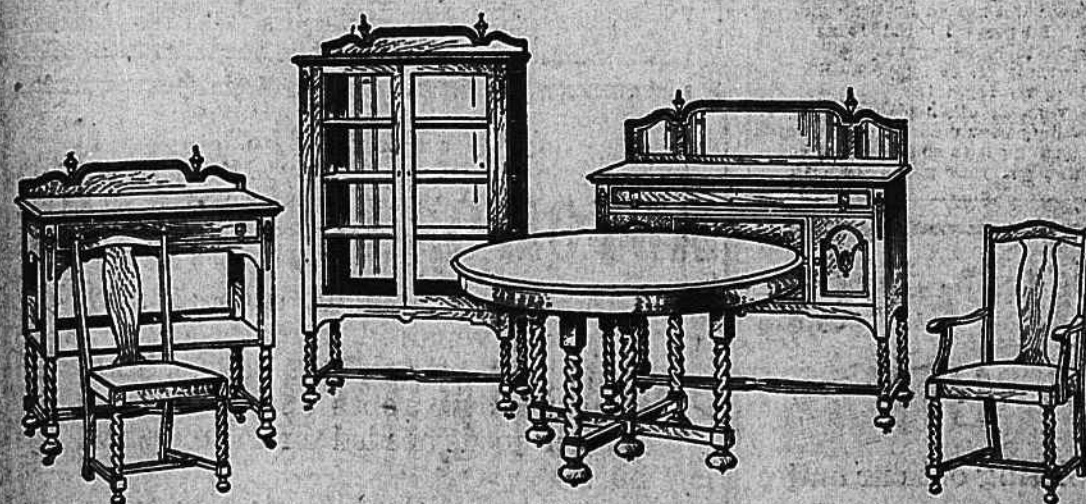

Come in and let us show you a list of over 700 Clarksburg users. Don't take our word for the good qualities of this stove. ASK THE USER.
